PREFACE

The Government of Ontario provides assistance to disabled persons and their families with programs and services which are administered through 19 ministries, the Civil Service Commission, and the Secretariat for Disabled Persons.

The Inventory of Ontario Government Programs and Services contains information on 120 programs and is designed to assist those organizations and agencies which are involved in activities concerning disabled persons. The inventory addresses a variety of needs and will be of particular interest to customer service officers, policy planners, program administrators and others with ongoing community contact.

In preparing the inventory, the Secretariat for Disabled Persons used the definition of "disability" set out in the Ontario Human Rights Code. The code states:

- 9 (b) "because of handicap" means for the reason that the person has or has had, or is believed to have or have had,
- (i) any degree of physical disability, infirmity, malformation or disfigurement that is caused by bodily injury, birth defect or illness and, without limiting the generality of the foregoing, including diabetes mellitus, epilepsy, any degree of paralysis, amputation, lack of physical co-ordination, blindness or visual impediment, deafness or hearing impediment, muteness or speech impediment, or physical reliance on a dog guide or on a wheelchair or other remedial appliance or device,
  - (ii) a condition of mental retardation or impairment,
  - (iii) a learning disability, or a dysfunction in one or more of the processes involved in understanding or using symbols or spoken language, or
  - (iv) a mental disorder.

The Secretariat has tried to use the most widely accepted terms in the description of programs. For example, developmentally disabled replaces the term mentally retarded where possible. It should be noted, however, that the titles of certain programs, organizations, and government statutes could not be changed to reflect current usage.

The Secretariat consulted all Ontario government ministries in developing the inventory. The cooperation and assistance provided by the ministries in the preparation of this inventory is appreciated.

Information is organized in a convenient standard format which describes basic features of programs, including: objectives, criteria for eligibility, and program description. For further information contact reference and telephone number is provided for each program.

Two different methods may be used to locate a specific program or service within the inventory.

An alphabetical listing of ministries and the name of programs that they provide appear on pages 5 through 9.

Users may also locate programs and services by employing the subject index located on pages 139 to 153. All programs and services in the inventory have been grouped under 19 categories in the subject index. For example, access, counselling services, employment programs, etc.

To locate a particular type of program or service, first select the subject category under which it would most likely appear. For example, services for developmentally disabled persons will be found in the section entitled Programs and Services for Developmentally Disabled Persons.

At the Secretariat for Disabled Persons we believe it is important that government share information with the disabled community. In response to your requests for a comprehensive listing of Ontario government programs and services for disabled persons, the Secretariat has developed this inventory. During the past year the Secretariat has pretested the inventory by making an initial edition available to ministry staff for their use and comment. Based on the feedback received from ministries, the Secretariat has revised and improved the inventory.

We believe that you will find this inventory to be a highly useful resource and would appreciate receiving your comments on how we might improve upon the inventory's format, content or usability.

Both the individual and the seeing eye dog must have successfully completed a training program at one of the specified schools.

Program Description

Under the Blind Persons' Rights Act, guide dogs accompanying blind people are allowed access to public accommodation, services, and facilities. The Act provides for the issuing of identification cards picturing the guide dog and blind owner. Cards are issued to persons using seeing eye dogs trained by one of the schools recognized in the regulations under the Act. A printed summary of the Blind Persons' Rights Act is provided with the identification card.

A sample identification card and a copy of the Blind Persons' Rights Act are available on request.

LIBRARY SERVICES FOR DISABLED PERSONS

Purpose

To assist the Libraries and Community Information Branch in addressing the information and library needs of Ontario's disabled population through the development, enhancement, and promotion of library services for disabled persons in Ontario's public libraries.

Program Description

Local public libraries attempting to develop, maintain, and/or enhance services for disabled persons would benefit from the Libraries and Community Information Branch's efforts in the area of library services for disabled persons. These efforts are linked to library systems via the Ontario Library Service Area offices.

The program provides assistance to Ontario public libraries through:

- the designation of a Provincial Library Services Coordinator for the purposes of consultation, policy and program development, and training and education;
- the development of an Advisory Committee on Library Services for Disabled Persons;
- ministry support for key areas of concern in the field of library services for disabled persons via special projects (Halpenny Study, Owen Sound Literacy Project);
- the Lottery Based Grants Program for public libraries wishing to purchase special format materials and equipment for use by disabled persons;
- the Capital Facilities Improvement Program (CFIP) which includes the construction and renovation of public libraries to enhance accessibility.

COMMUNITY FACILITIES IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM (Special Amenities to Improve Accessibility for Disabled Persons)

Purpose

To assist cultural and multicultural organizations to improve the delivery of programs through the alteration of existing structures.

Eligibility

The program is open to any municipality, local services board, indian band council, library board, conservation authority, or incorporated non-profit organization which delivers services/programs within the mandate of the Ministry of Citizenship and Culture and has been incorporated at least one year prior to application. Places of worship are generally not eligible for assistance.

Program Description

The program provides financial assistance for renovation to improve accessibility for disabled persons to facilities used for cultural, multicultural, or citizenship purposes, using Part 10 of the Ontario Building Code as a minimum standard. Applicants are encouraged by the ministry to raise the level of accessibility of their facility above the minimum required by the code (i.e. light switches, counter heights, interior finishes etc.)

Up to one-half of eligible costs may be provided for such amenities. An applicant must be able to demonstrate that all funds necessary to complete the project will be available.

An application, available from the ministry, should be submitted before a project is started.

Applications will be issued on specific criteria which include:

- the degree to which the need for the project can be demonstrated to enhance program and service delivery and accessibility;
- the degree to which the proposal is consistent with municipal, cultural and multicultural objectives and priorities;
- the degree to which the applicant can demonstrate that the project will not create an operating, management, or financial burden on the organization.

For detailed information about criteria, terms, and conditions, an eligible organization should contact the nearest ministry regional services office or the ministry directly.

EMPLOYMENT OF PERSONS WITH DISABILITIES

Purpose

To support, encourage, and emphasize equal employment opportunities for disabled persons in the Ontario Public Service.

Eligibility

Agencies that represent disabled persons and provide employment search services, as well as persons with disabilities who are occupationally qualified for employment in the Ontario Public Service, may participate in the program.

Program Description

Through education, and direct intervention, the program seeks to ensure that non-discriminatory employment methods are practised in the Ontario Public Service for disabled persons.

The program regularly monitors personnel policies and practices to ensure that they do not conflict with the principle of equal opportunity.

Seminars are given to the staff of ministries to support and emphasize the right of disabled persons to equal employment opportunity, and to encourage personnel staff to employ equal opportunity policies and practices.

The program maintains an inventory of the names and occupational qualifications of disabled persons. When a job competition arises, the names of suitably qualified disabled persons are brought forward from the inventory and their applications are submitted. Also, when a disabled person feels that he/she is not receiving equal opportunity in employment or job development, program staff will investigate the problem on his/her behalf.

In 1984-85, an estimated 562 disabled clients participated in the program.

BRaille AND AUDIO TRANSCRIPTION SERVICE FOR PRINT-HANDICAPPED POST-SECONDARY STUDENTS

Purpose

To assist print-handicapped students to secure an education at the post-secondary level by providing an audio and braille transcription service for textbook and reference material.

Eligibility

Students must be enrolled in an Ontario university or community college, Ryerson, the Ontario College of Art, or an eligible private vocational school.

Program Description

While the transcription service is available throughout Ontario, the W. Ross MacDonald School in Brantford acts as the provincial co-ordinating agency for this service. Students make requests for the service through the local post-secondary institution.

Only course-related textbooks and reference materials will be transcribed. Print-handicapped students should ask their institutions for assistance with other educational materials such as class handouts, examinations, and short reference articles.

During the program's first year of operation (1984-85), 140 students in post-secondary institutions received audio and/or braille materials.

SUPPORT SERVICES FOR DEAF AND HARD-OF-HEARING STUDENTS

Purpose

To provide support services for deaf and hard-of-hearing students attending post-secondary educational institutions in Ontario.

Eligibility

To be eligible for support under this program an individual must meet all of the following criteria:

- the individual must be deaf or hard-of-hearing;
  - the individual must be registered in a credit course at a university, a college of applied arts and technology, Ryerson, OCA, or an eligible private vocational school in Ontario;
  - the individual must not be in receipt of other financial support services for the deaf or hard-of- hearing.

Program Description

The support services provided under this program include sign language or oral interpreters, note-takers, and amplification devices. Priority will be given to part-time students since full-time hearing impaired students generally have access to funding for these support services from other sources. The ministry has contacted the Canadian Hearing Society to co-ordinate the delivery of the support services.

Individuals seeking financial support under this program are responsible for applying to the institution, program, and course of their choice. Once accepted by the institution, students should contact the designated liaison person in the institution. Staff involved in the application/registration process are aware of the program and will be able to direct students to the designated liaison person.

Grants are provided for the construction, acquisition and renovation of:

- group homes operated by non-profit organizations for the care of disabled adults;
- approved vocational rehabilitation workshops for physically disabled persons.

2. Homemakers and Nurses Services

Purpose

To assist in maintaining the quality of family life during the illness or absence of a parent or guardian.

To assist elderly, convalescent, handicapped, chronically ill, or otherwise disabled persons to remain in their homes whenever possible.

Eligibility

Eligibility for the program is determined by the municipalities.

3. Support Service Living Unit Program

Purpose

To provide an appropriate and positive alternative to institutionalization for physically disabled individuals who are able to live independently in the community.

Eligibility

The physically disabled person wishing to receive a support service must:

- require assistance with the activities of daily living because his/her disability is likely to be permanent;
- be able to live in his/her own home with assistance from an attendant on an on-call basis;
- be capable, or potentially capable, of determining when he/she requires attendant assistance;
- be able to have his/her needs met by the existing community health network (e.g., family physicians, out-patient clinics, visiting nurses).
- The disabled person applying for support services must be unable to have his/her needs adequately met by the home support or chronic home care services because of the intensity, irregularity, or unpredictability of his/her requirements over a twenty-four-hour period.

Disability is defined for the purpose of this program as a physical impairment or traumatic brain damage which prevents the individual from carrying out the activities of daily living unaided, or without endangering him/herself, or within a conventional time period.

Program Description

This program provides personal assistance or “attendant care” services to non-aged physically disabled adults (adults under 65) who are living independently in the community.

Non-professional attendants (i.e., attendants not necessarily trained in health care or other related professions) assist individuals in performing such daily activities as:

- bathing and washing
- getting into and out of bed
- personal grooming
- light meal preparation, eating, clean-up
- mobility, transferring, positioning
- toileting
- dressing and undressing
- essential communication

Activities additional to the basic ones may be provided. These include:

- laundry
- housekeeping
- shopping
- banking

Attendant care services are located in designated shared accommodation (group home) or integrated apartment complexes. On-site attendant staff provide any necessary personal care services to tenants.

Attendant services are shared among all the tenants in the project. Attendants may be scheduled by tenants (i.e., for getting up in the morning, going to bed at night, bathing, turning at night) or be available on call via telephone.

The Ministry of Community and Social Services funds only the attendant care portion of the program. Appropriate housing, which is geared to the tenant's income, is provided by the Ministry of Housing. Tenants are responsible for paying their own rent and basic living expenses. Most of the tenants, however, are receiving a disability allowance (GAINS-D) and therefore are eligible for a rent subsidy.

This program is funded through the Ministry of Community and Social Services Act. In 1984-85 it served approximately 535 persons in 47 support service living unit projects.

Phone	(416) 965-4945

4. Attendant Care Outreach Program

Purpose

To provide attendant care services to physically disabled adults living outside of designated support service living unit projects.

Eligibility

To be eligible for this service, a client must:

- be unable to carry out, within a conventional time period, some or all of the activities of daily living;
- require assistance with daily living activities on a consistent long-term basis and be responsibly and safely left unattended when such physical assistance is not actually required;
- be able to determine and communicate his/her needs for assistance to service providers;
- have medical needs that can be suitably met by the community health care system.

Program Description

This program is operated by non-profit corporations with funding under the Ministry of Community and Social Services Act.

The program operates on a scheduled visit basis (available primarily from 6:00 a.m. to 12:00 midnight daily) providing up to a maximum of 90 hours per month of attendant care service. Services provided include assistance with:

- dressing and undressing
- transferring
- rising and retiring
- personal grooming and hygiene
- bathing and washing
- light meal preparation

The Attendant Care Outreach Program has been designed to complement the services already being provided through existing visitation programs (e.g., Chronic Home Care, Homemakers and Nurses Services Program, etc.) and other alternative service arrangements/resources available to the client.

The program was introduced in the fall of 1984. Approximately 30 clients received the service during the 1984-85 start-up year.

5. Interpreter Service

Purpose

To increase the independence of hearing impaired adults by helping them use, to the fullest extent possible, any essential services they may require in the community.

Eligibility

Any person resident in Ontario who is hearing impaired and who, as a result, is put at a disadvantage in communicating with another person without the use of sign language is eligible.

The service is available to hearing impaired residents of all ages. However, it is not to be used by children for school purposes as interpretation at school is the responsibility of the local Board of Education.

Program Description

The Interpreter Service assists deaf and hearing impaired adults who are living in the community. It provides interpreters in order to assist the deaf person in communicating with others. Service priority is given to those people who require an interpreter to assist with job-related, medical, or legal matters.

Assistance is provided for essential matters and not social or recreational purposes. (Essential matters include legal, health, and social services, social assistance, employment, educational services, business meetings, and the like.)

The program is funded through the Ministry of Community and Social Services Act. The Canadian Hearing Society coordinates and delivers the service on behalf of the ministry.

In 1984-85 the program served 6,231 persons (including group and individual requests) mainly for education, access to ministry services, and business purposes.

6. Intervenor Service

Purpose

To increase the independence of deaf-blind adults by helping them use, to the fullest extent possible, any essential services they may require in the community.

Eligibility

The Intervenor Service is available for people who are:

- Ontario residents;
- eighteen (18) years of age or over and not attending full-time school;
- eligible to be registered blind in combination with severe loss of hearing or who have a combination of vision and hearing loss which causes substantial difficulty in the pursuit of educational, vocational, recreational, and social goals.

Service priority is given to deaf-blind adults just leaving school who require assistance in community adjustment and functioning.

Program Description

The Intervenor Service enables Ontario's estimated 300 deaf-blind adults who are living in the community to participate and live as independently as possible in the community. This is done through an "intervenor." The intervenor, using a variety of communication methods, mediates between the deaf-blind person and persons or situations in his/her environment, and helps the person to participate in community life.

The program is funded under the Ministry of Community and Social Services Act.

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind coordinates and delivers the program through a purchase-of-service agreement with the ministry. Full- and part-time staff deliver the service with the assistance of volunteers.

In 1984-85, 104 clients were served on an active case-load basis.

7. Vocational Rehabilitation Services and Workshops for Disabled Persons

Purpose

To assist individuals with a physical or mental disability to become capable of pursuing regularly a substantially gainful occupation.

To support community workshops which provide assessment, training, job placement, and sheltered employment for persons with a physical or mental disability.

Eligibility

An individual is eligible for vocational rehabilitation services if he/she is incapable of pursuing regularly any substantially gainful occupation because of a physical or mental impairment. Not only must a disability exist, but it must be vocationally handicapping. The legislation restricts services to those individuals who are ordinarily residents of Ontario. Individuals are not eligible if services are available under the Workers' Compensation Act or the Veterans' Rehabilitation Act.

Program Description

Two major activities are funded under the Vocational Rehabilitation Services Act.

- Vocational Rehabilitation Services

The Ministry of Community and Social Services directly provides Vocational Rehabilitation Services. Vocational rehabilitation counsellors are ministry employees. They provide vocational counselling, planning, and job placement and assist eligible clients to obtain other goods and services necessary for their vocational rehabilitation.

In addition to Vocational Rehabilitation Services, the Ministry of Community and Social Services is working with other levels of government to help financially disadvantaged persons to find employment. For example, the Youth Employment Preparation Program is designed to help young persons who are out of work. Employment Support Initiatives programs are for sole support parents. Family Benefits recipients who return to full-time jobs can also get help through the Work Incentive Program (WIN). Full-time employment includes self-employment and seasonal work as well as hourly-rated and salaried jobs. Through the WIN program a person may be eligible for a monthly cash benefit that is gradually reduced as earned income increases.

- Operating Grants to Workshops

Operating grants are paid to approved workshops providing assessment, vocational training, and placement services for disabled persons capable of entering the competitive labour market. For those persons unable to entertain this goal, meaningful sheltered employment is offered.

- Vocational assessment services are provided by staff counsellors and by the purchase of services such as psychological, educational, workshop, and work assessments.
- Medical restoration services may include the purchase of items needed to restore disabled persons to their optimum level of functioning (e.g., drugs, dental services, wheelchairs, artificial limbs).
- Training services may include the purchase of training in workshops, community colleges, private trade schools, universities, and on-the-job settings.
- Tools and equipment which enable disabled persons to start employment may be provided.
- Assistance with transportation expenses may be provided.

Contributions are also made to vocational rehabilitation programs such as those offered by the CNIB and the Canadian Hearing Society.

In 1984-85, there were an estimated 9,991 workshop trainees and 14,900 persons served through Vocational Rehabilitation Services.

CHILDREN'S SERVICES

Children's services include a variety of programs for disabled children:

1. Capital Grants
2. Day Nursery Services
3. Children's Mental Health Programs
4. Developmental Services for Children (description included under "Developmental Services for Adults and Children.")

1. Capital Grants

Depending on availability, grants may be provided for the construction, acquisition or renovation of:

- Developmental Day Nurseries
- Community Mental Health Programs for emotionally disturbed children and youth
- Facilities for disabled children (as part of Developmental Services)

2. Day Nursery Services

Purpose

To provide individually planned programs and/or services for children with disabling conditions.

Eligibility

Children under 18 years of age who have been assessed as having a condition of mental impairment, a physical disability, or a developmental delay are eligible to participate.

As of September 1, 1985, school-age children with disabling conditions will be accommodated in programs provided by local schools under the Ministry of Education (Bill 82).

The day care programs and/or services over and above those sponsored by schools will continue to receive funding under the Day Nurseries Act.

Program Description

While most programs for children with disabling conditions are administered under the Child and Family Services Act, group day care programs may be provided under the Day Nurseries Act in an integrated or segregated setting. The Act also allows for the provision of services to children in the child's own home or to a child enrolled in a private-home day care or day nursery arrangement.

The Ministry of Community and Social Services may provide funding to municipalities, Indian Bands, and "approved" corporations for the establishment, operation, and maintenance of day nursery services for children with disabling conditions.

Programs and services may be eligible for cost sharing with the province in accordance with the prescribed rates as set out in the regulation.

Further information about the services and funding may be obtained through the local MCSS area office or:

3. Children’s Mental Health Programs

Purpose

To provide services to meet the needs of emotionally disturbed children and their families.

Eligibility

The Child and Family Services Act, Part I, authorizes the provision and funding of services for children and their families. Services are defined in the Act and may also be defined in Regulations and in ministry directives. Children’s mental health programs may include services for:

- a child with a mental or psychiatric disorder and his/her family;
- children exhibiting social, emotional, and/or behavioural problems and their families.

The Act defines a child as a person under the age of 18 years, but also includes authority for the provision of services to persons over 18 years with the Minister’s approval.

Program Description

The majority of children’s mental health programs are provided by private, non-profit agencies, which are designated as approved agencies under the Child and Family Services Act.

These agencies provide a variety of residential and non-residential services to meet the needs of emotionally disturbed children and their families. Such services include:

- assessment
- counselling
- family therapy
- crisis intervention
- professional consultation
- day treatment
- residential care

In addition to the funded agencies, the Ministry of Community and Social Services directly operates a children's mental health centre (Thistlethorn Regional Centre). This functions as a regional centre offering teaching, research and evaluation, consultation services, and specialized treatment.

The ministry also funds three child and adolescent units in psychiatric hospitals located in Whitby, London, and St. Thomas.

DEVELOPMENTAL SERVICES FOR ADULTS AND CHILDREN

Programs for adults and children with developmental disabilities include:

1. Schedule I Facilities
2. Community Group Homes and Resource Centres (Schedule II Facilities)
3. Sheltered Workshops, Protective, and Other Community Support Services Programs

1. Schedule I Facilities

Purpose

To ensure the provision of a full range of residential, highly specialized treatment and training programs and services for people with developmental disabilities, in ministry-operated facilities.

Eligibility

The client must be diagnosed as being developmentally disabled. In addition to this criterion, each region sets other criteria for admission in relation to each specific type of disability.

A disabled person must have exhausted all other residential alternatives before admission into a Schedule I facility will be permitted. (Admission to Surrey Place Centre in Toronto is excepted from this requirement.)

Program Description

The Ministry of Community and Social Services operates 13 large residential facilities for developmentally disabled people located throughout the province. The largest serves approximately 950 residents; the smallest has about 100. These totals include clients in facility-operated approved homes and community residences.

The term “facilities” is used to cover a range of residential settings, from the large traditional institution to a provincially operated resource centre offering a range of programs to developmentally disabled children in Metro Toronto.

A person living in a facility for developmentally disabled persons may reside in one of the following:

- On-Site Buildings, Houses, and Apartments

A large building or complex of interconnected buildings may be divided into “cottages”, units, or wards containing between 20 and 50 beds. These units may be further subdivided by means of partitions or walls into individual rooms or semi-enclosed sections containing two to six beds. Apartments on the site of a facility are former large ward areas that have been subdivided into separate, individual living units.

- Approved Homes

These are supervised family care homes in the community providing care to residents of a facility under an agreement with the facility.

- Facility-operated Community Residences

These are group homes and apartments located off-site in the community but directly operated by employees of the facility.

A range of services is provided by the facility network:

- residential life: daily care, programming, and advocacy for residents by trained primary care workers known as residential counsellors or child care workers
- recreation: activities ranging from leisure counselling to therapeutic programs
- vocational: assessment, training, and placement in employment or employment-related activities ranging from sheltered workshop to competitive employment
- occupational therapy: assessment and programming in sensory and vestibular stimulation, fine motor and perceptual training, and pre-workshop activities
- physiotherapy: passive and active exercise therapy for residents who are physically disabled
- kinesiology: gross motor activities (balance, coordination, skill training) along with fitness testing and programs
- social work: advocacy and liaison with residents, staff, families, and community services, with specific attention to residents' programs and living environments
- psychology: psychological assessment, consultation, and programming
- speech and audiology/communications: assessment, consultation, and programming for communicative disorders
- physicians: general medical assessment, diagnosis, and treatment
- nursing: nursing services to infirmary areas of medical units as well as to specific resident living areas
- dentistry: dental services to residents

- psychiatry: psychiatric consultation
- pharmacy: storage and dissemination of drugs to units and/or residents

A number of highly specialized programs are provided:

- for care, treatment, and training of the blind, deaf, and multi-sensory disabled;
- for the acutely disturbed mentally ill developmentally disabled (in conjunction with the Ministry of Health);
- for the disturbed developmentally disabled.

The Ministry of Education provides special education programs for children living in the facilities. The children are either transported to local schools in the community or receive instruction from local school board teachers on the site of the facility.

The program is funded under the Developmental Services Act. In 1984-85 there were an estimated 5,438 spaces in ministry- operated facilities located across the province.

2. Community Group Homes and Resource Centres (Schedule II Facilities)

Purpose

To provide treatment, life and work skills training, and support services, as well as recreational and social activities, for developmentally disabled people.

Eligibility

Clients must be diagnosed as being developmentally disabled. In addition, each facility sets its own admission criteria, which the ministry's area offices are required to approve.

Program Description

Schedule II facilities (also called community resource centres) provide a full range of highly specialized treatment and training programs, as well as recreational and social activities for developmentally disabled persons. The care in these facilities ranges from low-level care to a more intensive and expensive residential care. These facilities are operated by community boards under the Developmental Services Act and the Child and Family Services Act. There are 10 Schedule II facilities providing residential services to approximately 1,000 children and adults.

Accommodation services for developmentally disabled persons are operated by approved corporations, funded under the Homes for Retarded Persons Act, the Developmental Services Act, or the Child and Family Services Act. There are 140 agencies which are funded to operate residential programs, including local associations for developmentally disabled persons and other voluntary sector sponsors. These programs provide more normal, community settings in which residents can learn life and work skills and receive training and support services.

The sponsoring agency chooses the location and makes full use of the programs offered by local recreation departments, schools, churches, libraries, and other community agencies.

There are two types of community residences operated by the voluntary agencies in this program group.

- Children’s Group Homes

58 group homes provide services to 629 severely developmentally disabled children in Ontario. The children receive training in the home in self-help, communication, and gross motor skills. The older, higher functioning children learn skills that enhance their independence, such as money management and the use of public transit. The children also attend local school board programs during the school year.

- Adult Group Homes

237 group homes provide accommodation for 2,358 developmentally disabled adults in Ontario. Residents of group homes receive skill training both in the group home and outside. They are taught domestic skills through involvement with meal preparation, housekeeping and cleaning, and shopping. They are also taught money management using the comfort allowance they receive from the ministry.

All group home residents are also involved in a day program through which they receive vocational and other life skills training. Most attend a workshop, although some residents are in job placement or competitive employment.

3. Sheltered Workshops, Protective and Other Community Support Services Programs

Purpose

To assist developmentally disabled persons to maintain themselves in the community and to assist families caring for developmentally disabled children at home.

Eligibility

For sheltered workshops, the client must be diagnosed as being developmentally disabled.

For adult life skills, the client must be 18 years and over and diagnosed as developmentally disabled.

For adult protective services, the client must be 18 years and over and diagnosed as developmentally disabled.

For infant development services, the infant must be at risk of developmental delay.

For community support services, the client must be diagnosed as being developmentally disabled.

Program Description

Work and Training Programs

The province funds vocational training, assessment, and sheltered employment through the Vocational Rehabilitation Services Act. The program is under review at the present time in an attempt to improve flow-through in the system and to rationalize the assessment, work training, sheltered employment, and training-on-the-job components of the service network.

(See also - Vocational Rehabilitation Services)

Adult Development or Life Skills Programs

Adult development or life skills programs serve severely developmentally disabled persons who are not able to participate in a vocational rehabilitation or work and training program.

These programs currently help developmentally disabled adults acquire personal and social skills so that they can function as independently as possible.

Adult Protective Service Workers

In 1975, the province began to fund a network of adult protective service workers who assist independent developmentally disabled adults to maintain themselves in the community. The functions of the workers include advocacy, case management, and emotional counselling. The adult protective service workers in the province are placed for the most part in generic agencies such as family service centres, health units, and so forth.

Special Services at Home Program

The ministry's special services at home program is designed to assist families caring for their developmentally disabled children at home. The program provides grants for such support services as parent relief workers and behaviour management specialists. It also covers the purchase of such special equipment as hearing aids, educational computers, and bath lifts. In 1984/85 approximately 2,800 children were served by the program.

Infant Development Programs

Infant development programs provide a home-based training and support service for families with infants (up to two years of age) who are at risk, either due to developmental disabilities or because of environmental deprivation. Infant development workers are provided to assist families to organize and enrich the infant's sensory experiences so that development in key areas (i.e., speech, language, perceptual-motor skills, socialization, and self-concept) is encouraged. The 50 infant development programs are sponsored mainly by generic community agencies, including public health units, hospitals, community mental health centres, and community colleges.

Parent Relief Programs

There are 45 community-based parent relief programs in Ontario. These programs provide parents with an interval of relief from the ongoing responsibilities of caring for a developmentally disabled person at home.

Relief services are typically provided for both planned (e.g., vacation) or emergency (e.g., family illness or crisis) purposes and are available for periods ranging from a few hours in the day or evening to several consecutive weeks.

Models include:

- in-home programs where the service is provided directly in the client's home by special respite care workers and homemakers;

- host-family programs where families with disabled persons are matched with interested “host families” in the community, who provide relief services in their homes;
  - in-centre programs located in community residences, group homes, and special respite care facilities.

Many Schedule I and II facilities also allocate beds for relief purposes.

Persons with physical disabilities may also be served through some of these programs.

Behaviour Training Programs

There are 22 behaviour training programs which provide home-based support services. Workers visit homes to demonstrate behaviour management techniques and suggest approaches appropriate to the family, so that parents and siblings may assist the developmentally disabled person to learn new skills and overcome behavioural problems. The workers may also provide consultation to teachers, employers, or group home counsellors involved in the day-to-day activities of the developmentally disabled person.

The programs operate on the mediator model whereby the parent or primary care-giver is shown how to deal with the child or adult client more effectively.

Programs are sponsored by local associations for developmentally disabled persons, facilities for developmentally disabled persons, public hospitals, municipal governments, universities, and family service associations.

Family Support Workers

Thirty-five agencies provide family support workers who assist parents/guardians of developmentally disabled people to determine what services are required and then help the parents or clients to arrange for and/or develop appropriate services.

Communications Programs

These programs provide speech and language assessments for developmentally disabled people. Assessments and consultations are followed by the development and implementation of corrective or therapeutic interventions. This may include the introduction of such communication tools as sign language, and Bliss symbolics. The programs use a mediator training model. Currently 12 such programs are operating in Ontario.

Assessment Services

Functional, educational, physical, psychological, and social assessments are conducted by professionals from a variety of disciplines to identify an individual's strengths, resources, and capabilities, as well as developmental disabilities. Assessments also suggest programs and approaches which would reduce the severity of identified disabilities.

Assessment services are funded in various settings including general hospitals, children's mental health centres, and Schedule I facilities.

Foster Care Support for Developmentally Disabled Individuals

This program provides a worker to find suitable foster families and match them with a developmentally disabled client. The worker assesses referrals to the program, recruits and trains foster parents, negotiates financial needs of the client, and provides ongoing support to the parent.

This support program is funded for the coordinating component only. Funding for the residential care component is taken from the accommodation allocation.

Supported Independent Living (SIL) in Apartments

Adults live in apartments and receive various degrees of staff assistance from the sponsoring organizations. The staff teach these adults the skills they require to live independently.

Other Community Support Services

In addition to the range of funded programs noted above, local associations for developmentally disabled persons and other community agencies provide a number of parent-to-parent and mutual support programs for families on a voluntary basis.

The number of clients served by these programs is limited. In 1984-85 the estimated number of spaces in each program was:

INCOME MAINTENANCE PROGRAMS

The Ministry of Community and Social Services administers four income maintenance programs:

1. GAINS-D
2. Handicapped Children's Benefit
3. Family Benefits Assistance
4. General Welfare Assistance

These income maintenance programs are designed to provide a source of income to persons in need who are unable to support themselves.

The ministry provides direct service to applicants and recipients of provincial allowances and benefits through a network of area and local offices. The GAINS-D, Handicapped Children's Benefit, and Family Benefits Assistance programs are delivered by the province. Municipalities are responsible for delivery of the General Welfare Assistance program.

A detailed account of each program appears below.

1. Guaranteed Annual Income System for the Disabled (GAINS-D)

Advisory Board, and is not eligible for a pension under the Old Age Security Act.

A “Permanently Unemployable Person” means a person who is unable to engage in remunerative employment for a prolonged period of time as verified by objective medical findings accepted by the Medical Advisory Board.

- The child must be less than 18 years old and have a severe disability.
  - Extraordinary costs must be present which are a direct result of the child's disability.

A family may apply to one of the local Ministry of Community and Social Services offices. If requested, the worker may help the family document their financial situation. A selection committee reviews the application and sends its recommendation to the area manager for approval.

Program Description

Established under the Family Benefits Act and Regulation, the Handicapped Children's Benefit Program provides financial assistance to parents who are caring for a disabled child at home. A monthly benefit is provided to help meet some of the ongoing extraordinary costs associated with such care.

The amount of benefit may range from a minimum of $25 to a maximum of $275 per month, and will vary depending on the size of the family, gross family income, and the types of extraordinary costs faced by the family. The average benefit is approximately $150 per month.

BUSINESS PRACTICES DIVISION

Purpose

To protect the consumer and to investigate questionable business practices.

Eligibility

Anyone may use the services provided by this division.

Programs:

Consumer Services Bureau

The Consumer Services Bureau offers an impartial mediation service which attempts to resolve disputes between consumers and business whenever possible.

Bureau staff are unable to act on a verbal complaint and thus it is ministry policy that all complaints must be in writing. In the case of disabled persons or whenever it is necessary, bureau staff will complete the complaint form for the complainant and make every effort to determine the extent of the problem from the consumer's point of view.

In very extenuating circumstances, bureau staff have been known to visit the complainant's home to obtain the necessary documentation prior to proceeding with the mediation process. There are eight bureaus across the province.

Real Estate and Business Brokers Act

As part of the qualifications for registration under the Real Estate and Business Brokers Act, all applicants must undergo a 150-hour study program and write three examinations. No disabled person is restricted from writing the examinations. A learning disabled person is given extra consideration during examination, i.e., additional time, personal review of the completed exam, and additional counselling when necessary.

Bailiffs, Collection Agencies, Consumer Reporting, Mortgage Brokers

Special consideration may be given, reviewed on an individual basis, to disabled persons in the writing of mortgage broker and collection agent examinations. There are no time restrictions for these examinations, but other factors may be considered.

Lotteries Branch

The Lotteries Branch licenses charitable organizations to operate bingos, raffles, Monte Carlo Events, and other schemes pursuant to authorities set out in the Criminal Code.

In consideration of the special needs of disabled persons engaging in lottery events, the branch has approved certain exemptions to the usual rules to ensure that the needs and rights of disabled persons are respected by groups licensed by the branch.

- Organizations of disabled persons are permitted to enlist outside help to operate bingo games and Monte Carlo Events.
- Bingo operators may hire special buses to transport disabled persons to and from bingo games.
- Bingo operators may allow the use of braille bingo cards.
- Hearing impaired persons may be provided with reserved seating near the caller in bingo halls.

It has been the policy of the branch to intercede on behalf of disabled persons in specific instances where, in its view, disabled persons have been unfairly treated by lottery operators. On those occasions, the branch has ordered that prize awards be made to disabled persons, when, by reason of a disability, they have failed to comply exactly with certain lottery rules. These instances most often relate to “late calls” at bingo games and other such disputes.

COMMUNITY SERVICE ORDER PROGRAM (CSO PROGRAM)

Purpose

To provide a positive alternative to incarceration which will directly benefit the community.

Eligibility

Participation is determined by the courts.

Program Description

Offenders are ordered by the courts to perform a number of community service hours as a condition of probation orders. After careful screening and discussion, suitable offenders are placed with community agencies providing a service to the public, where they complete their required number of hours. In many instances, agencies which provide placements for offenders serve disabled persons. This program will also, of course, accept disabled offenders to work in placements in the community.

The program offers support to agencies which provide helping services in the local community. CSO placements also give offenders the opportunity to work with disabled persons in a caring environment.

Printed materials describing the program are available from the Ministry of Correctional Services.

PROGRAMS PROVIDED BY A BOARD IN LIEU OF A PROVINCIAL SERVICE FOR DEAF, BLIND, AND DEAF-BLIND EXCEPTIONAL PUPILS

Purpose

To reimburse school boards for the cost of providing programs and services comparable to programs normally offered in provincial schools for blind and deaf pupils.

Eligibility

- The pupils must require a special education program because of a severe or profound visual or auditory disability, as certified by a legally qualified medical practitioner.
- The board programs and services must be comparable to those provided at provincial schools.
- The teachers must have the necessary qualifications to teach blind, deaf, or deaf-blind pupils.

Program Description

Under the Education Act, every school board is required to provide special education programs and services for its exceptional pupils. This requirement includes programs and services for exceptional pupils identified as visually impaired and hearing impaired. Funding for such programs and services is provided through the Act's general funding provisions.

Additional costs to the board are offset by ministry grants for special educational programs and services.

In certain circumstances, a board may wish to establish a special education program of instruction and support services to serve blind, deaf, or deaf-blind exceptional pupils (resident-internal or non-resident pupils) comparable to that provided at provincial schools.

When a school board receives the Minister's approval for a program in lieu of a provincial service, a grant will be paid to the board based on the number of teachers and the number of teacher-aides employed by the board for the provision of the program. The amounts which will be paid are specified in the General Legislative Grants regulation.

Only those teachers and teacher-aides directly employed in providing such approved programs are considered in determining the amount of grant to be paid. However, in the case of blind-deaf pupils, the Minister may approve the grant for the employment of a teacher-aide(s) to perform the duties and functions of an intervenor for such deaf-blind pupils. Furthermore, the Minister may approve a grant for the employment of a teacher-aide who is to provide an orientation and mobility program for a blind secondary school pupil(s).

Requests for approval for grant purposes must be submitted to the Regional Director of Education annually.

APPROVED HOMES PROGRAM

Purpose

To place psychiatric patients in a family atmosphere.

Eligibility

Eligibility is based on an assessed need under the Mental Health Act.

Program Description

Under the authority of the Mental Hospitals Act, the Approved Homes Program is a treatment program in which an essential element of therapy is the placement of a patient in a normal family atmosphere or a small-group living arrangement in accordance with his/her capacity. The program is used by patients of provincial psychiatric hospitals who require active social rehabilitation or training for a limited time (which normally does not exceed six months, but may extend up to one year for exceptional reasons).

The program is available through all provincial psychiatric hospitals with the exception of North Bay and Penetanguishene.

In 1984-85, 35 homes were licensed for 184 beds, and the projection for 1985-86 is the same. Seventy-six beds were occupied as of November 30, 1985.

HOMES FOR SPECIAL CARE PROGRAM

Purpose

To provide long-term residential care to individuals in psychiatric institutions who no longer require in-patient treatment, but who need some nursing care or custodial supervision.

Eligibility

Eligibility criteria are specified in the Homes for Special Care Act. ---

Program Description

The program provides custodial and/or nursing care in approved homes. The Homes for Special Care Act is the primary legislation for the program, while other Acts such as the Nursing Homes Act, the Developmental Services Act, the Public Trustee Act, and the Mental Health Act have major implications for the program and its residents.

As of October 1985, the program was providing 3,806 places in nursing homes and 2,060 places in residential homes.

1. Acute Home Care Program
2. Chronic Home Care Program
3. School Health Service Program

Home Care Program

Purpose

To provide coordinated delivery of appropriate multi-disciplinary health care services to the patient, in the home or school setting when this is deemed to be in the best interest of the patient. These services are directed at helping the patient attain and maintain the optimum achievable level of independent functioning.

1. Acute Home Care Program

Program Description

A candidate for acute home care is a person:

- who is in the immediate recovery phase or who is convalescing following an accident, illness or injury and who requires a planned and controlled therapeutic and educational program of comparatively short duration.

Eligibility

The eligibility criteria for acute home care are established by the Health Insurance Act, Regulation 452.

- The patient is insured under the Ontario Health Insurance Plan.
- The patient is under the medical supervision of an attending physician.
- That patient's medical condition is such that adequate treatment can be provided at home with the services available through the Home Care Program.

- The patient's family or other appropriate persons are willing and able to participate in the program, as required.
- The patient resides in the area designated as being covered by the Home Care Program.

The Acute Home Care Program provides:

- professional services
  - nursing
  - physiotherapy
  - occupational therapy
  - speech therapy

- whose acute phase of illness is over;
  - whose vital processes may or may not be stable;
  - whose potential for rehabilitation may be limited; and
  - who requires a range of therapeutic services and medical management. The period of time during which care is required is unpredictable but usually consists of a matter of months or years.

Eligibility

- The patient is insured under the Ontario Health Insurance Plan.
- The patient is under the medical supervision of an attending physician.
- The patient's medical condition is such that adequate treatment can be provided at home with the services available through the Home Care Program.

- The patient's family or other appropriate persons are willing and able to participate in the program, as required.

Services are provided in the patient's home.

3. School Health Service Program

Purpose

School Health Services Program is available to students with special health care needs in the school setting to fill existing gaps so that the student's education will not be unduly interrupted by the need to receive health care services.

Program Description

In September 1984, the Home Care Program's mandate was expanded to allow services to be provided in the school setting with full implementation expected by September 1, 1985, in compliance with the Education Act, 1980.

Eligibility

Services are available upon medical referral. Staff from Local Home Care Programs work closely with Boards of Education, parents, and other relevant health and social service agencies to individually assess each referred child and to develop an appropriate plan of care.

The plan may include the following services in the school setting:

- visiting nursing
- physiotherapy
- occupational therapy
- speech therapy
- nutritional counselling

In addition to providing treatment to the students, the visiting health care professionals may teach the treatment programs to school personnel or the children themselves when appropriate.

Activities

In 1984-85, approximately 12 per cent of the total admissions to the Home Care Program, or 18,162 patients, were disabled. (To determine the number of disabled persons, the following diagnostic categories were used: diabetes mellitus, cystic fibrosis, blindness, nephritis, nephrotic syndrome, nephrosis, congenital anomalies, central nervous system hereditary and degenerative diseases, Parkinson's disease, multiple sclerosis, muscular dystrophy, epilepsy, mental retardation, mental disorders, and amputations of the extremities.)

Material describing the Home Care Program is available to the public in both printed and audio-visual form. (See also page 67 Provision of Health Support Services In School Settings).

SOCIALLY ASSISTED RENTAL HOUSING PROGRAMS

Purpose

To provide rent-geared-to-income housing accommodation for low-income families, senior citizens, and physically, developmentally, and psychiatrically disabled persons. Rent is based on household income, rather than on the size or type of housing.

Eligibility Criteria

Physically disabled persons of any age are eligible to apply for subsidized housing, provided they are able to live independently.

As well, developmentally disabled persons of any age are eligible for subsidized housing. Such persons must, however, be capable of independent living based on the assessment of a professional agency.

Applicants must be Canadian citizens or landed immigrants. Visitors to Canada or persons without legal status are not considered.

In addition to these basic eligibility requirements, applicants should fulfil certain conditions in order to be considered for rent-geared-to-income accommodation.

- Applicants must have resided in Ontario continuously for the previous 12 months.
- Former tenants of local housing authorities who have outstanding rent arrears can be considered only if the arrears are paid in full.
- Applications will be considered from former tenants where one spouse is an LHA resident only after a divorce has been granted and custody of the children has been determined. Other eligibility criteria must be met, e.g. at least one dependent child.

Program Description

Mandated under several pieces of legislation (the National Housing Act, the Housing Development Act, the Ontario Housing Corporation Act, and the Ministry of Housing Act), Ontario Housing Corporation (OHC) administers such programs as:

- Non-Profit Housing Program
- Ontario Community Housing Assistance Program
- Rent Supplement Program
- Federal-Provincial Senior Citizen Rural Housing Program
- Convert-to-Rent
- Ontario Home Renewal Program

---

Local housing authorities are responsible for the day-to-day operations of Ontario Housing Corporation units. While disabled persons are one of the eligible client groups, the number of disabled tenants is limited. Up to 5 per cent of the units in each housing project may be allocated or made suitable for occupancy by disabled persons.

ONTARIO HOME RENEWAL PROGRAM

Purpose

- To help homeowners conserve and improve existing homes.
- To help physically disabled homeowners or homeowners with physically disabled relatives living with them to make modifications while upgrading their homes.

Eligibility

A system of loans (repayable and forgivable) to pay for the property rehabilitation is available to individuals whose “adjusted family income” does not exceed $19,000.

“Adjusted family income” means the aggregate gross annual income from all sources of the principal wage earner of a family and his/her spouse after deducting the following:

- earnings of the spouse up to $1,000;
- $300 for each dependent child;
- the first $1,000 of earnings of a one-parent family;
- living-out or travelling expenses of the principal wage earner of a family and his/her spouse, but not including living-out or travelling expenses for which there is reimbursement by the employer or travelling expenses to and from the place of employment;
- in the case of self-employment of the principal wage-earner of a family or his/her spouse, the expenses which are:
  - incurred in the earning of income;
  - permitted deductions under the Income Tax Act (Canada).

In order to qualify, dwelling units occupied by physically disabled residents must be below minimum housing standards established by municipalities. Other program criteria, such as maximum annual qualifying income, apply. Areas that could be altered during upgrading work include stairs, doors, bathrooms, kitchens, and windows.

A physically disabled person is defined as one with a permanent, major disability. Medical evidence must be produced to verify the condition.

Eligibility is confirmed upon an inspection of the home and an income analysis.

Program Description

The program is mandated by the Housing Development Act and is administered by the municipalities.

The owner secures estimates from two or more contractors and applies to the municipality for a loan. If the estimates are satisfactory, and the applicant meets the eligibility requirements, the municipality will approve the loan. The owner then awards contracts and proceeds with the work. The municipality will advance funds for payment as the work proceeds and will carry out periodic inspections of the work.

The maximum amount of the loan (repayable plus forgivable) is $7,500. The municipality may decide on the combination of forgivable loan and repayable loan. However, the maximum amount that may be forgiven is geared to the family income and cannot exceed $4,000. The forgivable portion is earned by continued ownership and occupancy for a period of time depending on the amount of the forgivable portion.

Repayment of the loan, excluding the forgivable portion, will commence after completion as advised by the municipality. Payments are to be made on a monthly basis.

Physically disabled homeowners, or homeowners with physically disabled relatives residing permanently with them, may qualify for loans of up to $9,500. This special maximum loan recognizes the extra costs involved in alterations that make homes more accessible, inside and outside.

Printed materials describing the program are available from the ministry.

The program is administered by local municipalities, and inquiries and applications should be directed to the municipal office, not to the Ministry of Housing.

WORKERS' COMPENSATION BOARD

Purpose

- To provide adequate income maintenance to workers sustaining or affected by work-related injuries.
- To provide medical and vocational rehabilitation services to assist injured people to return to the active work force.
- To help revise or formulate new policy objectives.
- To prevent work-related accidents through province-wide safety education.
- To manage and administer funds and activities in accordance with defined service levels.

Eligibility

A worker is entitled to benefits when he/she is accidentally injured in the course of his/her employment.

Program Description

The following benefits are available under the Workers' Compensation Act (effective Jan. 1, 1986).

- Compensation for Temporary Total Disability

A worker receives 90 per cent of net average earnings as long as temporary total disability continues. Net average earnings are determined by deducting probable income tax, Canada Pension Plan premiums, and unemployment insurance premiums payable by the worker from gross income. Annual gross earnings are covered up to a maximum of $32,100.

Minimum temporary total disability benefits are $11,212 per year or actual net average earnings, if they are less than that amount.

- Compensation for Permanent Total Disability

A worker receives 90 per cent of net average earnings (annual gross earnings covered up to a maximum of $32,100).

Minimum compensation for permanent total disability is $11,212 per year.

- Compensation to Families of Fatally Injured Workers

Payments are made:

- for necessary funeral expenses (minimum $1,525);

- to a dependent spouse: a lump sum based on the spouse's age (maximum $61,020, minimum $20,340) plus periodic payments based on the deceased worker's income and the presence or absence of dependents;
  - to dependent children (where there is no surviving spouse): a lump sum of $40,680 plus periodic payments based on deceased worker's income and the number of children;
  - to other dependents (when the deceased worker is not survived by a spouse or children): compensation according to their loss, to a maximum of 50 per cent of the deceased worker's net average earnings. Compensation to dependents is payable only as long as the worker could have been reasonably expected to support these dependents.

- Medical Services

These include advice to treating agencies, control of treatment, and special treatment facilities.

- Health Care Benefits

Payment of accounts to treating agencies, physicians, and chiropractors, payment of hospitalization costs, refunds for drugs purchased, and clothing allowances are covered under these benefits.

- Vocational Rehabilitation Services

These services include counselling and job training to help injured workers re-establish themselves.

There is no limit on the number of clients served by this program.

In 1984, 364,921 claims (lost time and no lost time) were accepted. The system is funded solely by employers of the province who pay assessment according to their rate classification.

The board also supports financially nine Ontario safety associations. The objective of these associations is to prevent industrial accidents and diseases through safety education.

WORKERS' COMPENSATION BOARD VOCATIONAL REHABILITATION PROGRAM

Purpose

- To restore the injured worker's earning capacity by providing modern, effective, and efficient vocational rehabilitation services designed to facilitate an early return to work and the community.
- To provide the same counselling and vocational assistance to surviving spouses.

Eligibility

Vocational rehabilitation services are extended to workers receiving compensation benefits under the following conditions:

- A compensable permanent disability prevents a return to the worker's former occupation.
- The worker has a temporary partial disability, and is cooperating in a medical and/or vocational rehabilitation process and actively seeking employment.
- A compensable condition limits activity to part-time employment.
- An industrial disease requires a change in employment and the disease is not included or identified within "The Special Rehabilitation Assistance Program to Remove Employees from the Hazards of Industrially Generated Diseases".
- Usual employment could cause a recurrence or aggravation of the compensable condition.
- A compensable disability accompanies a non-compensable disability, providing the non-compensable factor is not the only barrier to rehabilitation.
- Following successful rehabilitation, redundancy of either skill or employment requires further vocational rehabilitation assistance to locate suitable alternative employment.
- The worker resides in another province but receives benefits under the Workers' Compensation Act of Ontario. (Vocational rehabilitation service is normally provided by boards and commissions in the province of residence in keeping with inter-provincial understanding.)

Exceptions to the preceding eligibility criteria are considered on an individual basis.

Vocational rehabilitation services may be extended to a surviving spouse who is entitled to compensation under sections 36 or 45 (II), in the same manner as would be provided to a worker under section 54.

The Handicapped Employment Program provides employer consulting services and information services. Its activities include community development initiatives, support to research and policy development, and participation in interministerial initiatives.

- Employers

HEP consultants have worked with over 200 employers across the province. Several thousand other employers have received program materials and/or assistance by telephone. The consultants have also facilitated workshops sponsored by personnel associations and other community organizations.

- Communities

HEP has been involved in projects in over 30 communities across the province. It has worked with 15 of these communities in projects designed to coordinate community-based support to employers developing programs. HEP has provided grants to community councils and planning committees and uses job-creation programs to support various conferences and workshops.

- Resource Centre

HEP provides information services to representatives of all sectors which impact on employment. These include employers, disabled persons, organized labour, educators, health and rehabilitation professionals, and social service and government agencies. Two display units attended by information officers from the program are available for events across the province.

The Resource Centre is open to the public and is accessible to persons with mobility difficulties. Printed materials describing the HEP program are available from the centre. Some materials are available on tape for visually impaired or print-handicapped individuals.

- Outreach Initiatives

Outreach initiatives have occurred with employers, organized labour, disabled consumers and self-help groups, health and rehabilitation professionals, and educators. Examples of such outreach include:

- providing support to the Ontario Federation of Labour and Labour Councils in the development and facilitation of workshops for their members;
- joint sponsorship (with Persons United for Self-Help in Ontario and the Ontario Women's Directorate) of a Think-Tank on Women with Disabilities in Employment held in June 1985;
- support to the Shared Perspectives Interest Group (a group of Toronto-based health professionals) in the development and publication of a handbook entitled Focus on Employment: Resources for Professionals Working with People with Disabilities;
- advising educators on initiatives to increase the employment competitiveness of people with disabilities e.g., advice to boards of education developing cooperative programs regarding field work placements for students with disabilities;
- use of job-creation programs, such as Summer Experience and Futures, to support projects across Ontario on issues related to employment opportunities for disabled persons.

- Research

HEP sponsors research concerning hidden barriers of a systemic nature, such as a lack of coordinated job placement services, and medical barriers in the form of inappropriate fitness-for-work assessments.

ONTARIO HUMAN RIGHTS COMMISSION

The Human Rights Code provides that every person has a right to freedom from discrimination in the areas of:

- services, goods, and facilities
- the occupancy of accommodation
- contracts
- employment
- membership in vocational associations and trade unions

on the grounds of:

- race
- ancestry
- place of origin
- colour
- ethnic origin
- citizenship
- creed
- sex
- handicap
- age (18 to 65 years in employment; 18 years and over in the other areas)
- marital status (includes cohabitation, widowhood, separation)
- family status (parent-child relationship)
- the receipt of public assistance (in accommodation only)
- record of offences (provincial offences, pardoned federal offences — in employment only)

The code forbids harassment because of any of the prohibited grounds, including race and sex, in accommodation and employment. Harassment is defined as a course of vexatious comment or conduct that is known or ought reasonably to be known to be unwelcome. As well, the code prohibits unwanted sexual solicitations or advances made by a person in a position to confer, grant or deny a benefit because an advance has been refused.

There are some exceptions contained in the code, and not all the grounds of discrimination are forbidden in every area.

Any person who believes he/she has been discriminated against or harassed because of any of the prohibited grounds may file a complaint with the Ontario Human Rights Commission.

Program Description

The Ontario Human Rights Commission has two main functions:

- to administer the Ontario Human Rights Code;

- to work to prevent discrimination and to promote harmonious race relations through mediation, education, and consultation.

Ontario Human Rights Code

Complaints filed with the commission are investigated by human rights officers. After investigating all sides of a complaint, the officers bring both parties together to discuss the situation and help them to resolve the problem.

However, if settlement is not possible, the commission may request the Minister of Labour to appoint a board of inquiry. The board holds public hearings, takes evidence under oath from witnesses, and makes a decision as to whether discrimination or harassment has taken place. If the board decides that it did, it may order the person who discriminated to make amends in various ways, which can involve the job or service that was denied, as well as financial compensation for monetary losses and mental anguish incurred because of discrimination.

Provisions of the code address concerns that persons with disabilities have been denied employment opportunities because of traditional prejudices respecting handicap and lack of knowledge of the capabilities and potential of disabled persons. In particular, it has been the commission's experience that qualified applicants have been excluded from jobs without a determination being made as to whether the individual is able to perform the essential job functions.

Under the code, questions about illness, injury, or medical history, in the past or in the present, may not be asked on an application form or at any stage prior to the interview. Employers may raise questions regarding the extent of an applicant's handicap, as it affects his/her ability to do the job, only during a personal interview.

Similarly, an employer may require an applicant to undergo a job-related medical examination either during or after the interview process, but not before, and such medicals should be job-related and apply to all applicants. In addition, the results of the medical examinations should be used only to determine the person's ability to perform the essential duties of the employment.

Handicapped individuals have also used the code to lodge complaints against insurance companies. An individual with a handicap has an equal right to contract for insurance unless the insurance company can prove that that particular person is at substantial risk with respect to accident or injury because of his/her specific handicap. Complainants who have alleged that they were refused insurance coverage because their handicaps are believed to place them at risk have met with considerable success. Resolution of these complaints has resulted in mentally and physically disabled applicants being assessed on their individual merit, rather than on group characteristics.

The emphasis of Ontario human rights legislation has been on voluntary compliance and a conciliatory approach. Cases of discrimination because of handicap throughout the province are handled by the regional staff of the commission who receive specialist guidance through an administrative arrangement established in response to the unique and complex features of complaints based on handicap. Professional expertise is often necessary to assist the commission in making decisions as to what constitutes the essential duties of a job on one hand, and the individual's ability to perform them, on the other. Other complex cases requiring expertise include those involving novel tests of jurisdiction and complaints in which the validity of employment tests and other screening procedures are at issue.

Prevention of Discrimination

The commission provides an educational and consultative service on a province-wide basis for business, industry, unions, vocational associations, educational systems, government agencies, and voluntary religious associations.

The commission staff assist employers in understanding the provisions of the code by reviewing pre-employment screening measures, such as advertising, application form review, and pre-employment medicals. In addition, employers are assisted in developing appropriate measures to determine the essential duties and requirements of specific jobs as these relate to the individual's ability to perform them. Educating employers about recruitment strategies that will apprise handicapped individuals and their representative organizations of employment opportunities is another important responsibility.

Commission staff conduct seminars for supervisors and managers within the Ministries of Labour and Community and Social Services and the Workers' Compensation Board, in order to increase their awareness of the provisions of the code relating to handicap.

In-house seminars are conducted with associations for handicapped people and social service agencies. The Ontario Association for the Mentally Retarded, the CNIB, Persons United for Self-Help (PUSH), and BOOST among others have participated actively in assisting the commission to deal with formal complaints. Lawyers from the Advocacy Resource Centre for the Handicapped (ARCH) have frequently represented complainants during fact-finding conferences and conciliation. The Canadian Hearing Society has provided interpreters for complainants who have hearing impairments, and has tested complainants' hearing ability in light of the essential duties and safety factors of particular jobs. Epilepsy Ontario and its member branches have provided the commission with information on epilepsy and the factors which may or may not pose a risk to the worker, co-workers, or members of the public.

Discussions are held with consultants on architectural or environmental barriers. Consultations with occupational therapists explore areas such as functional capacity assessments and medical reviews to determine the job performance ability and potential of individual complainants.

OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH AND SAFETY DIVISION

The Occupational Health and Safety Act applies to all workers and work places in the province of Ontario with a few exceptions. A patient who participates in a work or rehabilitation program in a psychiatric institution, mental health or retardation centre or home, or rehabilitation facility is not a worker under the Act. However, the Occupational Health and Safety Division inspects these work places since workers, as defined, are those employed. The legislation covers:

- the general application of the Act;
- the establishment of joint labour and management health and safety committees;
- the appointment of health and safety representatives;
- the responsibilities of employers, supervisors, workers, and suppliers with regard to occupational health and safety;
- the control of the exposure of workers to toxic substances;
- refusals to work where health or safety is in danger;
- the prohibition of reprisals;
- notification of accidents.

PARKING AND TRAFFIC PRIVILEGES IN MUNICIPALITIES

Purpose

To provide parking and traffic privileges for disabled persons.

Program Description

Provisions of the Municipal Act enable municipal councils to issue permits which confer parking and traffic privileges for disabled persons and also provide for parking lot owners to set aside spaces for vehicles identified by permits.

In 1983, the Legislature approved two amendments to section 210, paragraph 119 of the Municipal Act which expanded the scope of the permissive municipal role.

Municipalities are entitled to recognize permits, markers, and other devices issued by other jurisdictions for the purposes of conferring upon travelling disabled drivers or passengers the privileges available to local residents who have disabilities.

Municipalities must recognize the provincial disabled symbol plate as equivalent to municipal permits and confirm the same benefits available to permit holders under local by-laws.

On July 8, 1983, the Minister of Municipal Affairs wrote to heads of municipal councils urging those municipalities which did not have in place a parking program for disabled persons to institute a permit system and pass the appropriate by-laws. Guidelines for local disabled parking programs are contained in a Ministry of Transportation and Communications paper distributed to all municipalities in the fall of 1982.

ONTARIO PROVINCIAL PARKS RESERVATION, RATES AND DATES BROCHURE, AND PARKS INFORMATION SERVICES

This service provides up-to-date information on provincial park rates, operating dates, and user facilities to help prospective visitors decide which parks to visit. It also permits them to make telephone reservations for subsequent camping visits.

An information brochure indicates which parks contain comfort stations that are accessible to persons with mobility difficulties.

FACILITY DESIGN FOR THE HANDICAPPED

Facility Design for the Handicapped is an internal reference document given to each local ministry office throughout Ontario. It provides technical information to ministry staff regarding the construction of provincial park facilities that are accessible to disabled persons. The manual also contains building construction guidelines with regard to accessibility standards.

For example, picnic tables that may be easily used by disabled persons are now being constructed under the supervision of the Ministry of Correctional Services. The new tables have cantilevered ends that are free of obstructions beneath the table tops. Beginning in 1985, these tables are being phased in to replace worn-out tables in Ontario's provincial parks.

DISABLED AND SENIORS IN THE COMMUNITY PROGRAM

Purpose

- To ensure the continued well-being and independence of the province's disabled people and senior citizens by helping them stay comfortably in their own homes.
- To encourage property owners to undertake alterations, improvements, or additions to their property for the purpose of providing residential accommodation to either disabled people or senior citizens who would otherwise require institutional care.

Eligibility

The program applies to properties with three or fewer residential units. Such properties must either be owned and occupied by disabled persons or senior citizens, or be intended to provide residential accommodation to such persons.

Program Description

The program was established in 1984 by Bill 71 – An Amendment to the Assessment Act. The program provides for a property tax exemption for qualifying alterations, improvements and additions that were commenced after May 15, 1984.

Properties with three or fewer residential units owned by disabled persons or senior citizens qualify for the exemption if alterations, improvements, or additions were undertaken to allow the owner(s) to continue to reside at the property as his/her/their principal place of residence.

The property tax exemptions also apply to alterations, improvements, or additions to properties of not more than three residential units, if they were undertaken for the purpose of providing residential accommodation for the disabled person(s) or senior citizen(s) who, without these alterations, improvements or additions, would otherwise require care in an institution.

Only the assessed value of the alterations, improvements, or additions is exempt from property taxation and for only as long as the disabled person(s) or senior citizen(s) resides in the property as his/her/their principal place of residence.

Information concerning the program is available from local Ontario Ministry of Revenue regional assessment offices listed in the blue pages of telephone directories.

SERVICES TO DISABLED PERSONS

The Government of Ontario recognizes the importance of assisting persons with special needs to access training programs. Training is a strategic investment for economic growth. Providing access to genuine training for women, young people, mature workers, Native persons, members of visible minorities and disabled persons is not only consistent with our long-standing community objectives of equality and personal fulfillment but also is an important economic investment.

Fair and equal access to training programs must be assured if we are to achieve the objectives of increased training and improved employability for individuals. Consequently, the Ministry endeavours to remove inequities which prevent persons with special needs from participating fully in the economic mainstream. Specifically, the Ministry provides training opportunities for special needs persons within the full range of Ministry sponsored activities.

PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION PROGRAM FOR PHYSICALLY DISABLED PERSONS

Purpose

To provide financial assistance to municipalities providing specialized public transportation services to physically disabled persons.

Eligibility

Ontario municipalities are eligible for funding for specialized transportation services for which a fare is charged. Services may be operated either by a municipality directly or by a contractor on behalf of the municipality, under an agreement approved by the ministry.

These specialized services are for those individuals who, regardless of age, are unable to board regular transit vehicles.

Program Description

The program was created under Section 94 of the Public Transportation and Highway Improvement Act.

It provides financial assistance to municipalities for specialized transit services. Capital costs such as expenditures to buy vehicles are subsidized at the rate of 50%. Operating subsidies will amount to 25% of approved operating costs plus $2.60 per passenger trip. In some cases the service, including the supply of vehicles, is provided by a contractor and the contract costs include the amortized annual vehicle costs. Under these conditions, the operating subsidy rate will be increased from 25% to 30%. The passenger trip subsidy rate is unchanged. Vehicle acquisition is the responsibility of the contractor.

Currently, about 52 municipalities participate in the program.

Eligibility

Licence plates with a disabled symbol are available to an individual who:

- requires a mobility aid such as a wheelchair or crutches.

Applicants are required to sign a statement attesting to their disability or to their role as a regular driver of a disabled person.

Temporarily disabled persons also qualify for the program. They can resume using regular plates upon regaining mobility. There is no charge for symbol plates if applicants own current plates, otherwise a $5.00 fee is charged.

Program Description

The program, available throughout Ontario, provides a blue-on-white licence number plate displaying the international symbol for physical disability. Plates are available through MTC licensing offices at no charge. Their use is legally recognized within municipalities extending on- or-off street parking privileges to disabled persons.

These licence plates were first introduced in February 1983. 6,000 licence plates were issued during the year 1983-84.

The program is currently under review by MTC.
